Overview

Disaster strikes when you are least prepared, so the best way to control the effects of a disaster is a strategy prepared in advance.

Polygon, a former Munters company, can help you prepare for a disaster. Experience shows that companies prepared to act quickly when confronted with a disaster benefit in two significant ways: 1) They avoid long business interruptions, and 2) They substantially reduce the cost of recovery.

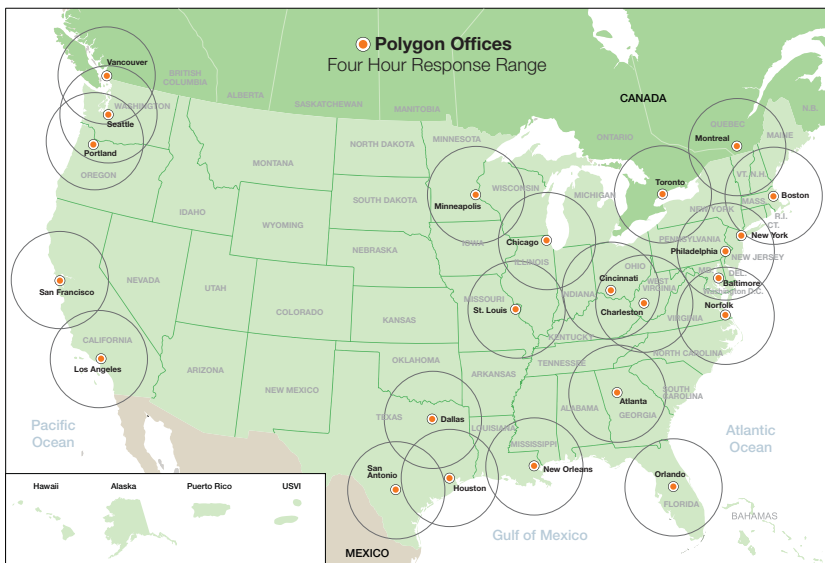

Ironically, many companies who have written disaster plans have overlooked preparation for basic services. Somehow taken for granted, important “on the ground” issues, including: who will pump standing water, provide emergency electrical power, clear debris, pack-out undamaged supplies and contents, manage smoke and water damaged documents, stabilize atmospheric conditions, rip out unsalvageable structural materials and dry the water damage, are left until after the disaster has occurred. The result is usually lengthy delays, while contractors are interviewed and quotations prepared. As the days and sometimes weeks pass by, costly business interruption and building deterioration occurs. The result can be “sky-high” losses, instead of a methodical and speedy return to business.

Polygon's Code Blue Program Solves the Problem

Polygon's Code Blue Program, an advanced agreement between your company and Polygon, provides an immediate and comprehensive response to any disaster. Whether a pipe break, a fire, a tornado, a river flood, or a hurricane, your company will be ready to respond immediately to a disaster with an experienced disaster management team and the correct equipment to do the job. Polygon has successfully completed tens of thousands of disaster projects. Many projects have involved multiple buildings at one time. We have the equipment, technical knowledge and experience to handle any emergency recovery project.

As a Code Blue customer, a team of Polygon professionals will be at your site within hours of your call. Your recovery project will be our top priority. Using the world's largest fleet of disaster recovery equipment, and the expertise gained from 30,000 successful projects, Polygon will ensure the fastest possible recovery.

With more than 20 company-owned offices in North America, Polygon has trained staff and emergency equipment within hours of any building you may own, or be responsible for.

POLYGON CODE BLUE PROGRAM

Top Priority

When a disaster strikes, as a Code Blue client, your company gets Polygon top priority. While other companies are scrambling for help, Polygon will be at your site taking action! If a disaster is foreseeable, Polygon will pre-contact you to establish communications and be immediately prepared to move in fast if the worst happens.

National Service

When you join Polygon's Code Blue Program, you become partners with a recovery company that has more than 20 offices in North America, including three document recovery centers. Our 24-hour customer support center puts you instantly in contact with any of our offices, regardless of the day of the week or time of day. Your Code Blue account manager is available "around the clock" to take your call and begin immediately to manage your recovery.

Experienced Staff

Polygon knows how to approach a disaster and our experienced staff will provide the leadership needed as you confront the most difficult of circumstances.

Superior Equipment

Polygon has the largest fleet of company-owned recovery equipment in the world. We have drying equipment large enough to handle NFL stadiums. We can create unique recovery systems to save historical buildings from demolition. We have document recovery centers located across the US. No company is better equipped for managing a disaster than Polygon.

Advanced Pricing

When your company becomes a Code Blue client, you will negotiate pre-approved service rates. You will not waste valuable recovery time taking bids and then trying to compare "apples vs. oranges" quotations. You will be working with a company who has served the American insurance industry for more than 20 years.

BECOME A CODE BLUE CLIENT TODAY

Polygon can help you prepare for disaster by becoming a Code Blue client. We'll help you define your needs, make recommendations to modify your disaster plan, and set up a take-action system that puts Polygon to work for you as soon as disaster strikes.
